Tourette's Syndrome (TS) is a widely misunderstood neurological condition that remains significantly underdiagnosed in Aotearoa New Zealand, despite being diagnosable in primary care. Around 85% of people with TS have co-occurring conditions such as ADHD, OCD, or anxiety, and often face bullying and social stigma.

Join us during Tourette's Awareness Month for this informative lunchtime webinar aimed at increasing awareness of how TS presents, how it can be diagnosed and managed, and what supports are available.

This webinar will be particularly relevant for general practice teams, mental health nurses, psychologists, counsellors, social workers, case managers, and others supporting neurodiverse communities.

Olya is a Consultant Child & Family Psychologist with a decade of experience in ICAMHS and private practice, with a special interest in working with children and young people experiencing tics and Tourette's.

Emma brings lived experience and advocates for better awareness of TS across the health and education sectors.
