Any man, woman or child can suffer from UTIs which, if not effectively diagnosed and treated, can lead onto distressing, painful symptoms and even urosepsis. They are one of the most common, global, bacterial, infections with women eight times more likely to be affected than men.

Join us for a lunchtime webinar which will provide an overview on the signs and symptoms, main causes, recurrent and catheter acquired UTIs, in addition to treatment and prevention.

Janet started nursing in the UK in the 1970s. After working for 28 years in New Zealand as a clinical nurse specialist and community educator for Continence NZ, she now has a private business seeing patients in their own homes and educating nurses in rest homes and general practice.

This webinar will be useful to a wide range of health professionals including Practice Nurses, Midwives, Public Health Nurses and those working in ARC and Community Care.
